What I Learned with a Breadstick, Ball and String

John Sarkisian, Serial Entrepreneur

Historic Quotes to Live By

It is not the critic who counts, not the one who points out how the strong man stumbled or how the doer of deeds might have done them better.

The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred with sweat and dust and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs and comes short again and again; who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions, and spends himself in a worthy cause; who, if he wins, knows the triumph of high achievement; and who, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat. Theodore Roosevelt

Our lives are not determined by what happens to us but by how we react to what happens, not by what life brings to us, but by the attitude we bring to life.

A positive attitude causes a chain reaction of positive thoughts, events, and outcomes. It is a catalyst, a spark that creates extraordinary results. Unknown.

As a Master in the Art of Living you draw no distinction between your work and your play, your labor and your leisure, your mind and your body, your education and your recreation, your love and your religion. You hardly know which is which. You simply pursue your vision of excellence through whatever you are doing, and leave it to others to determine if you're working or playing - to yourself, you're always doing both. James Michener

I've learned that people will forget what you said, people will forget what you did, but people will never forget how you made them feel. Maya Angelou

An Irish Blessing

May the road rise up to meet you,

May the wind always be at your back,

May the sun shine warm upon your face, the rains fall softly upon your fields,

And, until we meet again, may God hold you in the palm of His hand.
